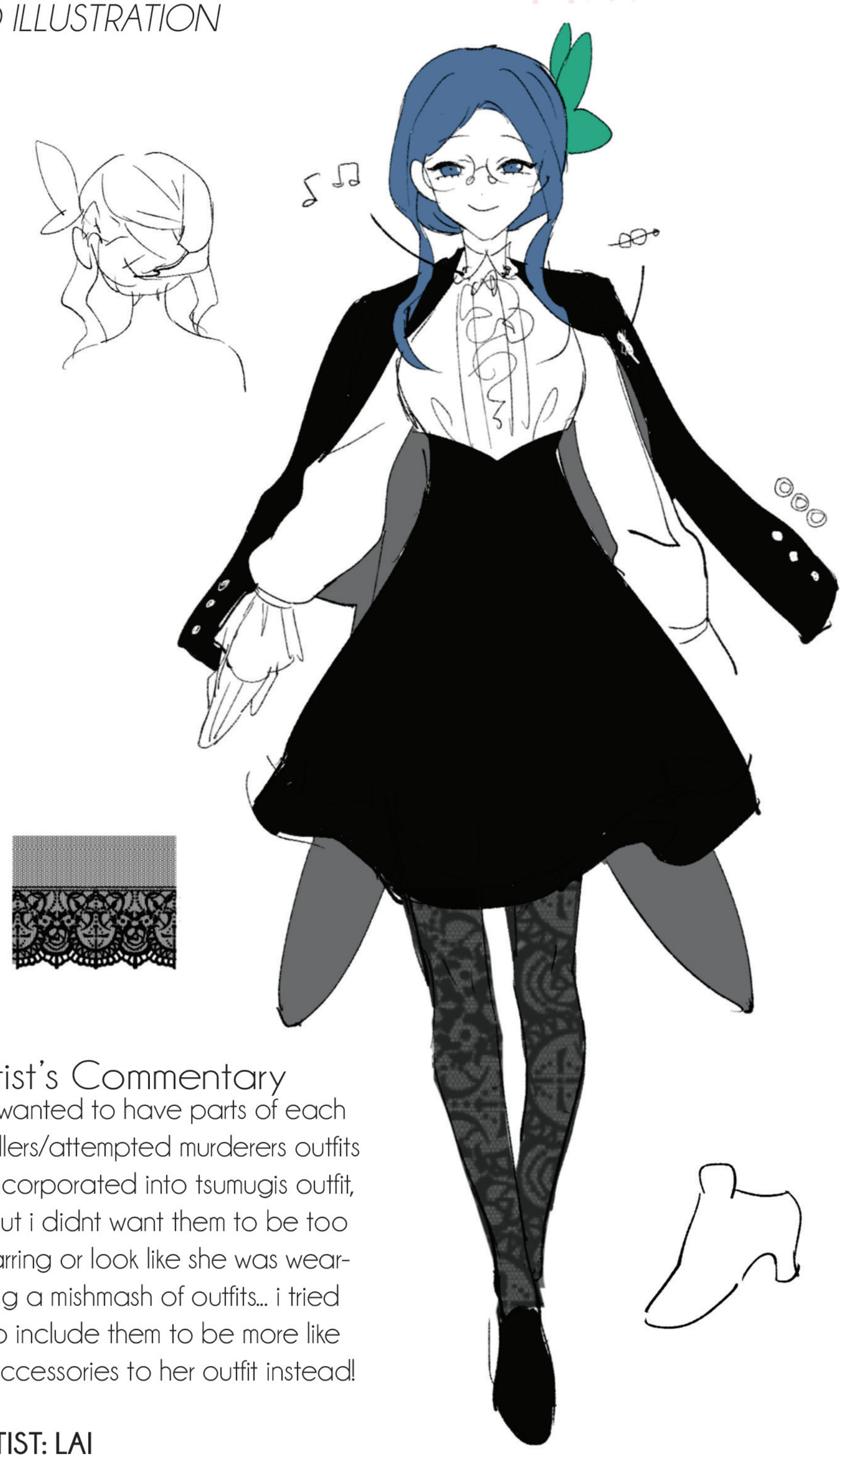
DROP DEAD DESPAIR I DR FASHION ZINE



Artist's Commentary

i wanted to have parts of each killers/attempted murderers outfits incorporated into tsumugis outfit, but i didnt want them to be too jarring or look like she was wearing a mishmash of outfits... i tried to include them to be more like accessories to her outfit instead!

DROP DEAD DESPAIR | DR FASHION ZINE

Artist's Commentary

i wanted to draw gundham+hams and other danganronpa characters with grandiose villain personas, one from each game, and felt like the victorian verging-on-gothic aesthetic would suit them well! gundham and celestia were pretty much all the way there already so they made it easy for me haha. i was tempted to go with a similarly over-the-top ensemble for kokichi, but i liked the victorian boy look with the cap and untied shoelaces. he's just an innocent schoolboy! nothing suspicious here!

KIDS' NIGHT OUT IN THE MONOKUMA HOTEL LOBBY

I wanted to go for a very classy and expensive scene, set in a polished golden room with classical architecture. Their clothing have themes of red, black, white and pinstripes.

One of my favorite things to do when hanging out with friends is go to a café or pastry shop...they're always so stylish and just nice environments to be in, so i wanted to incorporate this into my piece. Drawing the three just having fun together in a casual environment was a joy to do :)

V3 GIRLS

Artist's Commentary

My initial concept, as always, was: pretty girl pretty dress. I tried a few different designs, from a modern suit dress to a futuristic harajuku look! I thought Angie would look cool in a really dramatic flowing gown with fancy backlighting. I had a lot of fun with the final painting! The aesthetic I went for was pale silk and rose gold, because light colors against dark skin is just chef's kiss. Fun fact: I learned how to paint fabric folds just for this piece.

ROLLIN'

Artist's Commentary

Design wise, my main inspiration was 70's -80's roller disco fashion with a modern twist; lots of denim, high waisted pants, windbreakers and knee socks! I tried to incorporate colors that were in the character's original color palette while keeping them bright and in theme with the roller disco idea. I deviated a bit from the theme by placing them outside in my final piece because I was determined to incorporate graffiti stickers in the piece ahaha.

READ THE SIGN, LOSERS

Artist's Commentary

I initially experimented with a fancy Victorian murder mystery setting, but I eventually decided to draw heavy inspiration from Omoide Yokocho and Japanese street fashion instead. My main goal was to explore the various protagonist-antagonist dynamics in the main games.

<3 UR MY TOOLBOX <3

Artist's Commentary

I wanted the outfit to have a gyaru and decora mixed fashion but, I'm not sure if the final design is either fashion aha! Ultimately the goal was to make something that screams "Miu Iruma" For that reason it is a mix of a pure white virgin dress, semi revealing lingerie, clashing animal patterns, and cute fluffy plushies. The plush animals are a little heavy by the way. Because of course, Miu can come up with bad ideas sometimes.

THANK YOU!

Drop! Dead! Despair! is a Danganronpa fanzine dedicated towards presenting characters across the three main games in a variety of fashion.

The DDD team is incredibly thankful for the 51 artists that participated in the project. Their talent and dedication truly allowed for a gorgeous zine, combining many different art styles and fashion. Thank you so much for the time and hard work you all have put into this project.

A big thanks to those who bought the zine— without your help, this zine would have never come to fruition, and it is our group effort that fully allows this zine to blossom.

Again, we are so grateful to our contributors, and are thrilled to present to you: Drop! Dead! Despair!
